

the guardian

Buy of the day

Kate Carter recommends a little something to brighten up every day of the week. Check back each day for the next suggestion

Kate Carter

guardian.co.uk, Monday 12 November 2012 12.01 GMT

Friday

Mini board game, RRP £8.99, from lots of stockists everywhere but we're sure you only want to buy them from nice little independent shops who pay all their taxes on time, right?

Buy of the Day is a sucker for a bit of Gruffalo merchandise. Oh dear, oh no, etc. This new mini game is great for young children (from age three) and will get them started on a lifetime of board game playing, losing, storming off in a huff, having to be placated etc. No, it's great, really. It's based on hide and seek, and if you find the Gruffalo, you are the winner. Try not to be competitive about it, though, remember you are the adult.